Enrolment Requirements

Eligibility requires enrollment in an overseas university as an undergraduate or postgraduate student, proficiency in English, and pre-approval from the student's home institution.

Course Description:

This subject explores the transformative changes in the global media environment, preparing you to become a knowledgeable worker in the dynamic professional employment market. Key trends such as global communication networks, media digitalization, mobile content creation, human-machine interaction, virtualization, artificial intelligence, big data, and the democratization of video, sound, and text are examined within their social contexts. Drawing on interdisciplinary studies from humanities, arts, social sciences, and business, you will learn to create professional public media content showcasing your digital knowledge and skills. The course also delves into the central role of digital media in society, culture, and daily life, mediating individual experiences, reconfiguring communities, and forming networks. Key theories are introduced to explore digital media's impact on visibility, identities, power relations, and more. Students will be equipped with research tools to design projects using ethnographic and text-mining methods, enabling a deep understanding of digital cultures and sociality.

Prerequisite:

Prior knowledge in fundamental accounting is required for taking this course.

Academic Integrity

Students are expected to uphold the university's academic honesty principles which are an integral part of the university's core values and principles. If a student fails to observe the acceptable standards of academic honesty, they could attract penalties and even disqualification from the course in more serious circumstances. Students are responsible for knowing and observing accepted principles of research, writing and any other task which they are required to complete.

Academic dishonesty or cheating includes acts of plagiarism, misrepresentation, fabrication, failure to reference materials used properly and forgery. These may include, but are not limited to: claiming the work of others as your own, deliberately applying false and inaccurate information, copying the work of others in part or whole, allowing others in the course to copy your work in part or whole, failing to appropriately acknowledge the work of other scholars/authors through acceptable referencing standards, purchasing papers or writing papers for other students and submitting the same paper twice for the same subject.

This Academic Integrity policy applies to all students of the Zhejiang University in all programs of study, including non-graduating students. It is to reinforce the University's commitment to maintain integrity and honesty in all academic activities of the University community.

Policy

The foundation of good academic work is honesty. Maintaining academic integrity upholds the standards of the University. The responsibility for maintaining integrity in all the activities of the academic community lies with the students as well as the faculty and the University. Everyone in this community must work together to ensure that the values of truth, trust and justice are upheld.

Academic dishonesty affects the University's reputation and devalues the degrees offered. The University will impose serious penalties on students who are found to have violated this policy. The following penalties may be imposed:

- ✓ Expulsion
- ✓ Suspension
- ✓ Zero mark /fail grade
- ✓ Marking down
- ✓ Re-doing/re-submitting of assignments or reports, and
- ✓ Verbal or written warning.
